For even more security!

New autoLock AV4D M4 automatic locking system.

autoLock AV4D M4 - more substantial locking of external doors and higher break-in protection

Winkhaus developed this new mechanical version with additional hooks for different markets. It supplements the popular range of AV4D security door locking systems.

Locked immediately without a key

The useful benefits of the user-friendly systems include the keyless immediate locking process: Once the door is pulled open, the autoLock AV4D locks automatically, securely and tightly, without having to be locked again with a key. Its locking deadbolts with claw action give external doors high resistance to burglary. Even in the standard M2 version, good basic security (e.g. RC2), variant M4 with additional safety bolts is even safer.

Long-lasting comfort

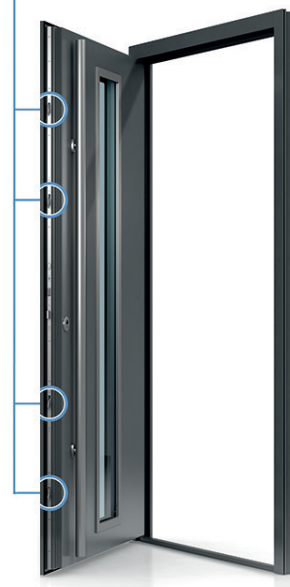

The AV4D hooks with combined sealing elements make for a smooth yet strong seal. This helps to avoid energy losses and draughts. Wich also improves living comfort. Even after years, the doors still close reliably, as the system effectively counteracts warping.

The comfortable locking mechanism is controlled by a central magnetic trigger. This makes unsightly scuffs and scratches on the frame or keeps from latches or the tracer pin a thing of the past. The integrated fail-safe function also helps to protect the surfaces: It prevents the door from slamming shut when the hooks are extended unintentionally.

Unique one-handed operation

Winkhaus' innovative daytime latch also helps make the AV4D lock one of the most popular fittings for external doors. It enables easy mechanical activation with a single action and holds the door open for a brief time, much like a conventional electric door strike. Winkhaus offers the latch as an easy to operate one-handed module.

The daytime latch can also be activated for other Winkhaus multi-point locking systems (e.g. hookLock M2 or similar).
